NEW BUSINESS SERVICE

Setting up a business is an exciting prospect and can be immensely rewarding. In the first 12 months of operation many new business owners are faced with a multitude of issues to deal with which could include starting and maintaining a marketing campaign, increasing staff numbers, dealing with suppliers and of course, getting new clients and generating income.

In this important stage in your business' development the right advice could make the difference between success and failure.

Working with businesses in a variety of service sectors including marketing, property investment, retail, restaurants, bars and technology, we understand the commercial pressures that new businesses face to realise their potential and reach their goals.

Our new business service is aimed at providing practical legal and commercial advice to new businesses in their most crucial period of operation. From £250 plus VAT per month for a 12 month contract, your business will benefit from:

- A free 1 hour initial consultation at our offices.
- Choosing how and when to use any of our services.
- Specially reduced rates for our corporate/commercial services.
- Discounted rates for all other Lyndales legal services.

Our new business clients see us as a resource for legal advice, available as their in-house legal team, taking time to understand how their businesses operate and playing an active part in their growth and development.

New business clients have the added advantage of having access to all our specialists in employment, dispute resolution, property, commercial and corporate law, which is coupled with the flexibility of using our services in any way they wish. We can attend board meetings, draft shareholder agreements or employment contracts or simply provide ad hoc advice by email or on the phone.

Straight talking, plain speaking and no nonsense. Let us help your business be a success.
